

Meet our Director & Voice Instructor

John K. Brown

John K. Brown started singing at a very young age and God has continued to bless him with a career in this industry. He grew up in Louisville, KY (a southern boy) and attended performing art schools from late elementary school and all through college.

His first taste of artistic directing came when his mother sent him to Europe on tour with his performing high school ensemble where he was the lead vocalist and dancer. From then on, the inspiration of perfecting a piece of work to excel to its highest achievement was developed. Staging and Directing has brought him alongside Dove Award winner Ronald Owen as Director of a New Musical “Requiem for a Young Man”, and he thanks God for the opportunity. His other professional credits include 10 years at Walt Disney World Leadership Coordinator for “Enviropals” (currently running on PBS) and a 10 year member of the acclaimed international acapella group Rockapella (from the hit PBS show “Where in the World is Carmen San Diego”).

His Theatre credits include Hello Dolly, Miss Saigon, The Lion King, West Side Story and Pippin. The entertainment business is not easy to be a part of but with the grace of God all things are possible and mountains can be moved!
